

Pine Ridge Community Needs Survey

At the start of the pandemic, Thunder Valley CDC in partnership with Indigenous Response Network launched a community needs survey. Because Indigenous Nations across the country have faced disparities in healthcare, transportation, and access to necessities we wanted to make sure our work in response to COVID-19 was guided by our Oyate (people).

Survey Results:

What district do you live in?

272 responses

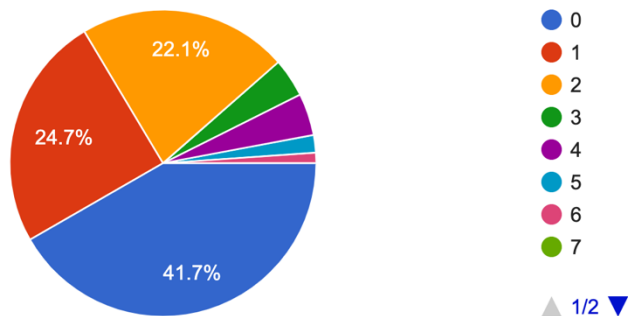

How many people in your household are Hokšičala/Wakhányeža (0-12 years old)?

280 responses

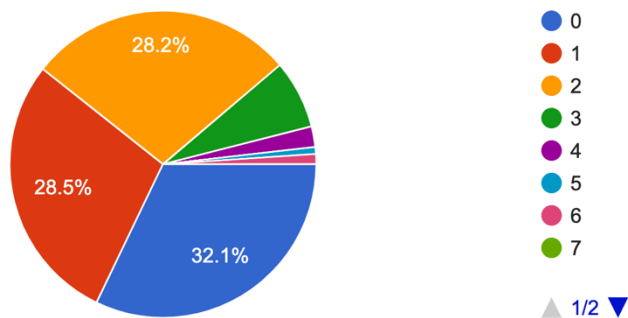

How many people in your household are Hokšila/Wičiňčala (13-21 years old)?

271 responses

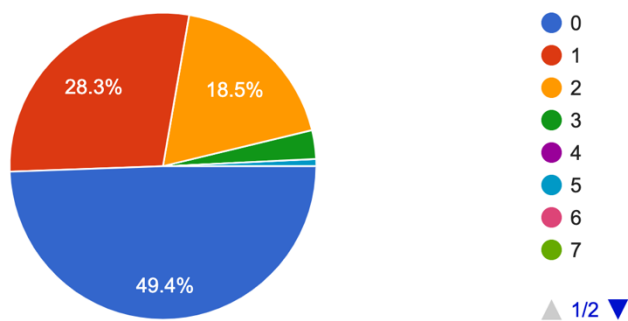

How many people in your household are Kħoškálaka/Wikħóškalaka (22-38 years old)?

277 responses

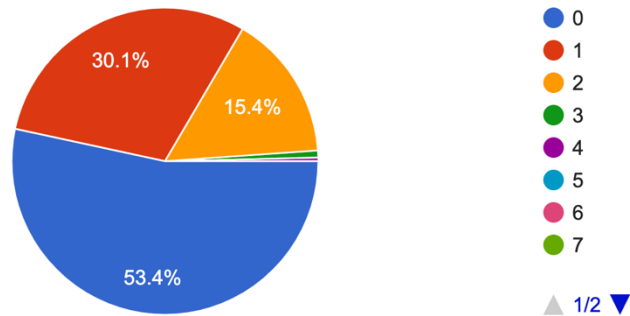

How many people in your household are Wičháša/Wiňyan (39-54 years old)?

265 responses

How many people in your household are Wičháňčala/Winúňčala (55+ years old)?

266 responses

What health conditions or lifestyle habits are present in members of your household?

225 responses

How much food, on average, do you have in your home?

283 responses

What supplies and/or treatments do you currently have in the home?

281 responses

The results of our survey identified a need of support for our elders and youth and has provided us with a plan of action for the reservation. Thunder Valley and Indigenous Response has provided cleaning supply kits, elder food boxes, and youth kits to each of the districts on the reservation giving access to preventative measures (both cleaning supplies and personal protective equipment) as well as food boxes packed with groceries and traditional foods and medicines without having to leave their homes.
